

Bretton Hall Essays

practicality, innovation & initiative

edited by Anthony W Denton & John L Taylor

Bretton Hall Essays

practicality, innovation & initiative

Edited by Anthony W Denton & John L Taylor

The editors and Quacks Books of York are pleased to announce the publication of a new book of retrospective essays about Bretton Hall College, Wakefield.

The college was established to provide post-war teacher-training in 1949, by Sir Alec Clegg, the Chief Education Officer for the West Riding County Council from 1945–1974.

The college merged with the University of Leeds in 2001, and was subsequently closed by the University in 2007.

This collection captures the recollections of a number of ex-students and ex-staff and demonstrates unique importance of this much-loved institution.

This book can be purchased from the Yorkshire Sculpture Park, West Bretton, Wakefield, WF4 4LG (Website: <https://yspshop.org.uk/> - shipping available from £2.99. Alternatively, free collection available from YSP Weston Shop) ; or by post from Quacks Books (details below). Books will be dispatched once published.

Email: design@quacks.info

Call: 01904 635967

Write: (in capitals please) to Quacks Books, 7 Grape Lane, Petergate, York YO1 7HU with the following details:

- a. Name/Address for delivery.....
.....
- b. No of copies.....@ £20 (+ p&p) per copy.
- c. Contact details to arrange payment (once the book is published) :
.....
.....

Many thanks.

Quacks Books, 01904 635967

Pre-Order Form

Available from 25th
September