

Share Your Story – Autumn 2025

Starting in Normanton

Age UK Wakefield District is launching an exciting new oral history project celebrating the voices of working-class communities.

For generations, coalmining, textiles, glassmaking and more—shaped lives in the five towns. Yet too many of these stories remain untold.

We'll be interviewing older residents to create audio documentaries, drawings, recordings, and photographs. These will be shared through exhibitions in local libraries and at sites including Nostell Priory and the National Coal Mining Museum.

Do you, or someone you know, have a story to share?

To hear more about the project and share your memories come along to
